The city council also moved that it would advertise for a part-time building inspector. The contract with the county, which affords use of the county's inspector, terminates at the end of the year.

Both the Planning Commission and the Board of Adjustments have been concerned about their challenges realizing that one person could not fill the demands of both employers. The city fathers hope that the city's demands will be met more easily by having its own inspector.

Dale Berg asked that the city consider designating a portion of the city a "blighted" area. The condition, when documented, could bring grants to revitalize property. Acan lot, employ building, etc., indicate an economic blight.

The city took the proposal under advertisement and will meet with Mr. Berg after investigating the proposal.

It was also agreed that the city would take ownership of a roadway at 1000 South 150 West, the entrance to the Plasant Valley Trailer Park. The property is still on the county tax rolls. The city will pay $128 in back taxes and receive the property.

T and K Steel also had their business license approved. That company will be located in the old Cloyes Gears building in southwest Heber.

The council will also be considering the feasibility of providing and requiring uniforms for certain of its employees.

Concern was expressed about the number of cars parked for extended periods of time on city streets. The parked cars interfere with snow removal. It was suggested that those vehicles to cited or towed.

Dogs running the streets also brought comment from the council. The Heber City leash law requires that all dogs be under control at all times.

It was also expressed that sand and silt filled creeks will add to flooding next spring. A plan to clear the creek beds is to be considered.
